

What KRHA does.

The Kentucky Rural Health Association (KRHA) educates providers and consumers on rural health issues and advocates actions by private and public leaders to assure equitable access to health care for rural Kentuckians.

What is our mission?

“The mission of the Kentucky Rural Health Association is to advocate for equitable distribution and access to improve health status for rural Kentuckians”

What are our goals?

- Equitable access to health care for all Kentuckians.
- Equitable distribution of health care resources throughout the state.

Strategic Objectives:

- Empower grass roots constituency.
- Effect governmental policy and legislation.
- Educate the public.
- Provide a forum for prioritizing needs and focusing efforts.

The Kentucky Rural Health Association encourages all rural health care advocates and providers to become members of the association. Membership provides you, or your organization with the opportunity to express your needs and opinions regarding the delivery of rural health care in Kentucky. The position of KRHA on rural health issues will be actively voiced at community, state and national levels.
